Hi-tech inventor Herbert R. Stollorz has uncovered natural mathematical ratios and cycles in the Bible that date the Apocalypse from December 21, 2008 to December 21, 2015. Mr. Stollorz, inventor of the flying magnetic disk head and a number of other hi-tech instruments, has identified a number of chronological cycles in the Bible that interconnect with the twelve main Jewish feast and fast days. He sorts them out using the Hebrew Alphabet Number System, which is more dependable and simpler to use than the Kabala.

Two recent scientific discoveries will forever change how we understand the Bible. Because of them, future events prophesied in the Bible, and confirmed by many ancient calendar-clock systems from around the world, can be accurately projected and calibrated to our modern Gregorian calendar.

Much has been written about the coming Apocalypse. It is a popular topic for TV documentaries as well as a common movie theme. Most people intuitively feel that the time is at hand, though we may humanly hope that the apocalypse will be delayed further so that it does not take place in our own lifetimes.

Previously missed predictions were greeted with relief. Many mocked God and the Bible because of human error. Today, most Christians avoid thinking about the coming seven years of severe trial by repeating in shadenfreude a much misquoted Bible verse, "No one knows the hour."

I disagree. The Bible states that "those who have insight, the wise, will understand the counting of the days given to Daniel over 2,500 years ago. In my books, I give you my whole methodology as I discovered it. You can check each step out for yourself! For those who want a quick rundown, here are the dates I have discovered over a 4-year period of research. There is one for each letter of the Hebrew Alphabet.

Two Rails Perspective: Science and the Bible

Institutionally acceptable science rejects the Bible. Theologians reject the application of science to solving Bible prophecy problems. Personally, I think that that these two perspectives should be merged with an open mind. That is what I have done, and the result is better insights and understanding of both the Bible and the natural world.

I refer to my viewpoint as one that rides on a two-railed track. It is more stable than the monorail approaches taken by too many Christian professionals and university scientists. Another way of looking at it is to think about riding a train along California's Pacific Coast. If one is sitting on one side of the railcar, he or she would see the ocean. The other side views the mountains. It is not possible to see both sides unless a person rises above his or her present viewpoint to go up to the upper level seats covered by an observation dome set in the roof of the railcar. From that upper level (Heh dimension) one can see the whole picture. In short, that is God's view of the universe: He sees everything.

Monorail perspectives lead to bad science and erroneous theology. Some scientists assume life started with a big explosion in space, and evolution took over from there taking billions upon billions of years. Many theologians do not think that Jesus will soon return to rule over the mortal nations of the earth. Most who do believe in the faulty Rapture Theory. Both issues are discussed on our web site.

We attempt to give you a 360° perspective along the 14 railroad stations of Bible history and prophecy spanning 7,000 Hebrew years. When one can see the world from a full rounded world viewpoint an ancient calendars and clocks to pyramids and old stories recorded in ancient languages, he starts to see what is missing from the most popular theories of science and theology. Also, dating the Apocalypse is then possible. The process is trustworthy and exciting like a ballgame. I use a familiar Russian Babushka nesting doll illustration where each doll has an identical pattern replicated on a different scale from the smallest to the largest. The scope of my books follows this pattern going from 7,000 years of world history and prophecy to 7 years of the same and then to topics of smaller scope, though also very important.

21 December 2012

TV specials about the Bible code often come up with the date December 12, 2012, but the researchers do not know its significance. The Aztec-Mayan prophecies equate this date with the end of the world. What is its true significance?

What do inventor Herbert Stollorz's discoveries reveal about this mysterious winter solstice? You can read about it for free at www.apocalypse2008-2015.com. The "Resurrection" of Antichrist Students of the Aztec-Mayan calendar system differ as to the significance of December 12, 2012. They do agree that it marks the end of the current Long Cycle and all ancient Meso-American calendars discovered so far. Most predict some kind of calamity will take place on that day. Some the end of the world. Others believe that it marks the transition to a new age. A few link it to some prophesied disruption on the planet Venus that will bring terrible consequences to planet Earth!

What does the Bible have to say about it? Since the Bible does not come right out and state a clear prophecy timetable, it must be reconstructed using scientific methodology. Theologians have been unable to do this because their training does not include natural science. As an inventor, Herbert R. Stollorz has spent a lifetime of looking at problems unconventionally. For solutions, he relied on his observations of nature and mathematical patterns. Many famous scientists like Albert Einstein, Isaac Newton or Leonardo da Vinci solved problems using similar techniques.

My first book, Apocalypse Prophesied, describes God's 7,000-year plan for humanity and explains why God will soon purge the earth with great trials – many of which we humans will bring upon ourselves! In chapters 2 and 9 of my second book, Mystery of Tammuz 17, discusses what will happen on this date. The book as a whole explains my research methods and describes the 7 years of the Apocalypse in detail – even providing a calendar dating key events mentioned in the Bible. So what will happen on December 12, 2012?

Time will tell, but my research of the Bible strongly indicates that this is the date of Antichrist's "resurrection." I may be wrong, but there are so many "coincidences" in the calendar of Apocalypse events that they can't be merely "coincidences." When you read my books, you will see what I mean for yourself! Antichrist will soon appear on the political scene. He will be very popular and present rational plans to stabilize the impending economic, political and military crises brought on by our collapsing civilization. Not only are we in for more severe hurricanes, earthquakes and pandemic disease plagues, we will see the collapse of the US economy within the next few years, if I am correct. In fact it will probably include the destruction of New York City some time after December 21, 2008.
